

EMPLOYER WITHHOLDING INFORMATION

OVERVIEW:

Income withholding is an administrative or court ordered deduction of child and medical support obligations from a parent's income. The employer (or other source of income, i.e., banks, unemployment compensation, workers' compensation, etc.) deducts the specified amount each pay period and sends the payment to the Ohio Child Support Payment Central (CSPC) at:

Ohio CSPC
P.O. Box 182394 Columbus,
OH 43218-2394

Income is defined as "any form of monetary payment, including personal earnings; workers' compensation payments; unemployment compensation benefits....; pensions, annuities; allowances; private or governmental retirement benefits; disability or sick pay; insurance proceeds; lottery prize awards; federal, state, or local government benefits...; any form of trust fund or endowment; lump sum payments; and any other payment in money." [O.R.C. 3121.01]

HOW TO CALCULATE MULTIPLE ORDER DEDUCTIONS

An employer may have an employee who has more than one case and order and therefore will receive multiple order/notices to withhold income. Federal law requires that some money will be paid to each order for current support. The employer may need to prorate the amount due. The following link will provide you with an easy calculator designed to assist you when you received multiple withholding orders for an employee www.ocda.us

Additional web sites to assist you with other withholding question can be found at these links:

www.expertpay.com

http://jfs.ohio.gov/Ocs/employers/CSPC_Overview.stm